

WE ARE HERE FOR YOU

Pennsylvania Office of Attorney General

This is a different kind of school year for many students. Whether in the classroom, online, or a mix of each, we are here to support you with resources to help children stay safe, healthy, and focused on learning.

TALK ABOUT
HEALTH

This year, the mental health of children needs to be a top priority. Honest, open conversations about mental health will make this school year better for our young people. Students can share concerns and report tips directly to the Safe2Say Something anonymous hotline and crisis center, which operates 24/7. The 2nd annual Safe2Say Something report revealed the majority of nearly 50,000 tips received were about mental health, and those tips increased during the Covid-19 health emergency.

This year, our Public Engagement Outreach (OPE) Specialists are continuing to work closely with principals and teachers, as well as directly with groups of parents, to reach Pennsylvania students, especially about the pressures they encounter online. Programs serve students at all grade levels and are available virtually. To book a presentation for your group call (717) 772-0907; or visit www.attorneygeneral.gov/ope-new.

Programming addresses Cyber-Bullying, Mental Health and Online Safety, as well as the dangers that Opioids and Drug Diversion presents to students. Opioids come in many different forms, impacting the lives of everyone from high school sports stars, to nurses, to people who've been injured at work. These drugs are often stolen from someone with a legitimate prescription.

The number one source of drugs for teenagers is home medicine cabinets.

CONTESTS

This fall, students are invited to participate in two annual contests we offer every school year:

- 24th Annual Drug-Free Calendar Contest for fifth graders
- 2nd Annual Safe2Say Something Contest for high school students

2021 OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

24th Annual Drug-Free Calendar Contest

Every year, we invite and encourage all fifth-graders from across Pennsylvania to submit their artwork for consideration in the annual Drug-Free Calendar Contest. Please pass along this information to your fifth-grade teachers, and most importantly to all fifth-grade parents asking them to have their children create an original illustration that includes a drug-free message of their choice (example: "The Best Me is Drug Free"), in addition to acknowledging mental health and the challenges of COVID-19, if desired.

Entries must adhere to the following guidelines in order to be eligible:

- Drawings must be on white 8 ½ x 11 inch paper with a landscape orientation (longer side on the top and bottom)
- The use of copyrighted or trademarked brand names and images is prohibited
- Students may use paints, pens, pencils, crayons or any other a drawing instrument. Glitter and other adhesive materials are prohibited
- Any entries with misspelled words will be disqualified
- Each entry must include an entry form

The Office of Attorney General staff will selected 13 entries chosen to be part of the 2021 Drug Free Calendar. The students will receive a $529 monetary contribution to their PA 529 College Savings Program. The PA 529 Investment Plan helps families save for education and is easy to set up online. A 529 college savings plan is a specialized savings account operated by the Commonwealth. Savings grow tax-free as long as the withdrawals are for qualified education expenses. For more information on 529 Plans, visit <http://www.pa529.com/>.
