WHEREAS, Respondent Republic Services Group of Pennsylvania, LLC is a Delaware limited liability company registered as a foreign limited liability company with the Corporate Bureau with a registered agent of c/o CT Corporation System, 1515 Market Street, Suite 1210, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102;

WHEREAS, Respondent BFI Waste Services of Pennsylvania, LLC is a Pennsylvania limited liability company registered as a limited liability company with the Corporate Bureau with a principal place of business at 372 South Henderson Road, King of Prussia, Pennsylvania 19406;

For purposes of this Assurance of Voluntary Compliance (“Assurance”), Republic Services of Pennsylvania, LLC, Republic Services Group of Pennsylvania, LLC, and BFI Waste Services of Pennsylvania, LLC and any of their subsidiaries operating in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall be referred to herein as “Republic” and/or “Respondents”;

BACKGROUND

WHEREAS, Respondents have engaged in trade or commerce within the Commonwealth by advertising, marketing, offering to sell, selling, and/or providing waste and recycling removal services to Pennsylvania Consumers (as defined herein);

WHEREAS, Respondents provide waste and/or recycling removal services to residential consumers throughout the Commonwealth. Respondents provide services to these consumers under one of three types of arrangements: (1) an agreement with the municipality, township, or borough in which the consumer resides (a "Municipal Customer"), (2) a written customer service agreement between Respondents and the consumer (a "Contract Customer"), or (3) via a residential subscription service ("Subscription Service") wherein the consumer subscribes to monthly or quarterly waste and/or recycling removal services (a "Subscription Customer");

WHEREAS, Contract Customers, receive notice from Respondents of all fees and rates pursuant to a written agreement and all fee and rate increases are governed by that agreement;

WHEREAS, Subscription Customers receive notice of all fees and rates or changes thereto from speaking with customer service representatives, through their invoices and/or through information posted on Respondents' website. Subscription Customers receive their invoices from Respondents on a monthly or quarterly basis;

WHEREAS, Subscription Customers can sign up to receive waste and recycling removal services from Respondents by phone or by completing an online form on Respondents' website;

WHEREAS, Respondents charge their customers various fees associated with its services. These fees include and are related to environmental recovery, fuel recovery, administration, recycling processing, late payments, service interruptions, and container delivery and removal costs;

WHEREAS, the container removal fee covers Respondents' cost to remove, refurbish and repair waste and/or recycling containers Respondents provide to customers when a customer elects to cancel Respondents' services;

WHEREAS, rate and fee charges appear as a line item on Subscription Customers' invoices;

WHEREAS, Respondents include on their invoices an "Important Information" section, which includes notices of fee and/or rate increases, as well as promotional offers;

WHEREAS, based upon its investigation, the Commonwealth believes Respondents' conduct with respect to Subscription Customers violated the Consumer Protection Law, as stated below:

1. In some instances, Respondents' invoices to Subscription Customers directed such consumers to the fee disclosure page on Respondents' website for more information regarding fees and increases thereto. Generally, Respondents provided these notices in reference to increases in environmental recovery, fuel recovery, recycling processing, and/or administrative fees. However, these notices did not specifically advise Subscription Customers that a container removal fee would be assessed upon a cancellation of service.

2. In some instances, Respondents did not provide adequate notice to Subscription Customers that Respondents were going to charge such consumers a container removal fee upon cancellation of services.

3. Certain Subscription Customers who signed up for waste removal services under a Subscription Plan through a form on Respondents' website did not receive adequate notice of the container removal fee at the time of agreement.

4. Certain consumers did not receive adequate notice of the container removal fee at the time of subscribing.

5. In some instances, Respondents failed to sufficiently provide advance notice to Subscription Customers of the container removal fees.

6. In some instances, invoices sent by Respondents to Subscription Customers referenced container removal fees in the following context: "Republic Services offers a variety of containers and dumpsters for all of your large clean up and construction projects. Please call our office at 215-723-0400 for details and pricing. Equipment fees may apply. This consists of fees for cart deliveries, exchanges, and removals." The Commonwealth asserts that this does not constitute sufficient, clear and conspicuous notice.

7. In some instances, Subscription Customers were not given sufficient advance notice that a container removal fee would be charged when they cancelled services. In some instances, Subscription Customers would have to have access to the internet and would have to know where to go to the webpage listed on the invoice in order to realize that the container removal fee was going to be charged upon cancellation. However, in some instances, consumers who went to the fee disclosure page on Respondents' website found that the container removal fee was not listed.

8. In some instances, Subscription Customers who did not know to go to the website or lacked internet access, were not aware of the container removal fee until they were charged for the fee on their invoice.

9. Respondents charged certain Subscription Customers a container removal fee upon cancellation, despite the consumer providing their own waste and/or recycling container(s) while receiving services.

10. Various Subscription Customers complained to the Office of Attorney General that they were never informed and/or were never aware that they would have to pay a container removal fee.

11. In some instances, Respondents sent Subscription Customers non-payment notices and made referrals to collections agencies due to a consumer's refusal to pay and/or non-payment of the container removal fee.

12. In some instances, Subscription Customers who paid the container removal fee did not have the containers removed until weeks after payment.

WHEREAS, the Commonwealth alleges that the above-stated acts and practices violate the Consumer Protection Law, 73 P.S. § 201-1, et seq.

WHEREAS, this Assurance is accepted by the Commonwealth pursuant to Section 201-5 of the Consumer Protection Law in lieu of commencing statutory proceedings under Section 201-4. 73 P.S. §§ 201-4, 201-5;

WHEREAS, Respondents, while disputing many of the allegations above and making no admission of liability, affirm their commitment to comply with the civil laws of the Commonwealth and agree by signing this Assurance to recognize and be bound by any and all obligations, liabilities, responsibilities and encumbrances as set forth in this Assurance.;
